ACADEMIC PROJECTS

HealthMate

2017

This project is intended to user book doctor appointment using application as well as a website. Using this application user can check the doctor has arrived at a clinic/hospital or not. Furthermore, they can also see how many patients are waiting in a queue and they will get estimated time through SMS and email notification. I developed this project in Java.

Result Notifier

2016

This project send a notification to students when their result declared on site. I used web scraping in python to check result status. Before this project students frequently go to GTU website to check their semester result declared or not. By using this project student need to only register only once with their mobile number and email id. When their semester result declared they would get email notification also student get SMS notification.
